

ABSTRACT

A feed or mineral supplement for animals, especially deer, contains effective amounts of sulfur and garlic to repel insects from the animals. By inducing the insect repellent into the animal via ingestion of the attractant, disease and stress in the animals as caused by the insects is reduced. A feed is easily modified by adding the effective amounts of the garlic and sulfur to the feed.